The Brady Brief - Reforming Wall Street

Dear Friend,

Last week, a landmark financial regulatory reform bill was announced by House and Senate negotiators. This piece of legislation puts into place common-sense reforms protecting the American public by holding Wall Street and big banks accountable. I look forward to voting for this bill when it comes to the House floor, and I will continue to push for its passage.

The following are some of the major provisions of this bill, but for more detailed information about Wall Street reform, please visit my website.

- Establishes a new Consumer Financial Protection Agency
  - Ensures American consumers get the clear, accurate information they need to shop for mortgages, credit cards, student loans, and other financial products
  - - Protects Americans from hidden fees, abusive terms, unfair terms and deceptive practices
- Improves mortgage lending, eliminating many hidden fees and abusive practices
- Reforms debit card transaction fees
- Ends taxpayer bailouts
- Provides tough government enforcement and oversight to uphold these measures

I look forward to this important piece of legislation becoming law, as it will greatly improve our financial system and will prevent the financial meltdown that occurred in 2008. I will continue to work to protect all Americans from the corporate greed and abusive practices found on Wall Street. If you have any questions about this, or any other issue, please contact any of my offices.

Sincerely,

Robert Brady
Member of Congress
